

Open-plan concepts must provide privacy in terms of sight and sound and it must be possible to divide areas appropriately in order to enhance efficiency. If this is achieved in an aesthetically pleasing manner, the result is an added sense of wellbeing. With paravento S and M, ophelis offers a variable system for structuring and partitioning space.

The paravento hub modular system acts variously as a think tank, meeting compartment, place of retreat, wardrobe or as a service point in open space. It splits the room into zones, provides privacy in terms of sound and sight and at the same time creates a productive, comfortable working atmosphere.
